Seabees honored by Kiln VFW Auxiliary

Ten members of Naval Construction Battalion No.1, presently homeported at Gulfport Navy Base, were feted at a lunch on Tuesday, sponsored by the VFW 6281 Ladies Auxiliary, Kiln.

The lunch was to recognize the Seabees for their efforts in building the new Kiln Volunteer Fire Department fire hall.

Jenelle Koenann, president, VFW Auxiliary, made presentation of a framed Certificate of Appreciation, for display at the base.

The award was accepted on behalf of the Seabees by Builder First Class (BU1) Ray Guntharp, who, after thanking the ladies for the excellent lunch, said the Seabees were only too pleased to help communities in the area with needed, public facilities such as "The men assigned to this project are people who are not scheduled for trade

inbetween courses. "We are pleased to assist in this type of project because not only does it provide us with an opportunity to help our homeport area, it also provides us with a chance to give our men on the job training in preparation for their actual assignments overseas," Guntharp explained.

VFW Auxiliary Committee helping with the lunch were: Joyce Ladner, VFW treasurer who also signed the certificate, Mildred Bobinger, Ellen Peterson, and Mabel Moran. Also assisting were Francis Long and

Attorneys summon county to aid with law library

by JAKE JACOB

The Hancock County Bar Association has received county endorsement in the establishment of a Hancock Law Library to be housed inside the existing library structure on US-90.

Atterneys Walter J. Gex, III, and J.P. Compretta, appeared before the supervisors Monday soliciting a donation of five percent matching funds from the county treasury.

Gex said the project is to be funded on a 90-5-5 basis, with the Law Enforcement Agency (LEA) funding the lion's share, $6,267.87, and the state and county splitting the balance at $ 348.22 apiece, for a total stipend of $ 6,984.30. Further, Gex allowed, legal publishing firms had indicated a willingness to donate works to the law library, a factor that would lend further value to its establishment. Compretta estimated the annual supplement to the library by the county would be in the neighborhood of $5-600. Chancery Clerk John D. Rutherford,

Jr., said the county would procure a 1972 Mississippi State Code for donation and supervisors agreed to investigate the feasibility of "add on fees" to support the endeavor. (CONTINUED ON PAGE 6) seventeen percent gas rate hike come July 1, according to City Hall. A letter received from United Gas this week told of the increase, the fifth such within a year. The last raise, requested by United for November, 1976, but delayed by the Federal Power Commission until Jamaary '77, shot prices up by 30 percent at the coldest time of the year.

The increase was passed down to consumers in the form of a water rate increase, in an attempt to lessen the

The November request from United brought the price to Bay St.Louis up some 52.82 percent over June of 1976. The new proposal, adding a further 17 percent, means consumers will be faced with a 69.82 per cent gas cost hike since June one year ago.

The complete impact of the new rate is not expected to be felt until autumn as the majority of people will not be utilizing natural gas for anything but minor needs until that time.

A check with alternate utilities yesterday revealed no increase in electricity bills is anticipated due to the United demand."

The number of Seabees deployed to the fire hall task has varied day by day since their commencement of the job some three weeks back. This due to the "on base" manpower requirement and the trade school demands.

Too, Guntharp said, only those people who could actually work would be brought over from the base at any particular time.

"The electricians are ahead so they are not here today, but we have doubled ີ້ ບໍ່ກິ on our UT's (utility men) to speed up water and sewage line stallation,"Guntharp explained.

The fire hall is 54 by 30 and is designed to house two fire engines, kitchen, office, and rest rooms. Of reinforced cement block construction, the building is receiving all Broadleaf weeds in corn can be controlled with 2, 4-D applied at the rate of one pint per acre broadcast. After corn is 12 to 14 inches high, drop sprayer nozzles so they will spray the herbicide over weeds and not down into the corn plants.

If grass is a problem, a directed application of Lorox may be made after corn is 15 inches high. Apply Lorox with surfactant at the rate of onehalf to one pound per acre on a 14-inch band. Use lower rates on sandy loan soils; higher rates on heavy soils. (Source: Dr. Charles Baskin)

Where Will Mississippians Vacation

With the approach of summer, many Mississippians are undoubtedly wondering where to vacation.

There's a multitude of ideal vacation spots, inexpensive and full of fun, and its all in your own back vard.

Some may ask why vacation in Mississippi. We say, "why not?" If you're looking for sun, water and summer sports, there's no better vacation place than Mississippi's Gulf Coast, sometimes called America's History buffs or those who wish to know more about their own state can visit Vicksburg. But, Vicksburg is more than just a historical city. It abounds with hospitality, too. That's how it earned the name, "Red Carpet City."

Then there's Greenwood in the Mississippi Delta, the home of Florewood, the state's newest park where living history is recreated daily. Mississippi also boasts the only remaining campground fair in the United States, the Neshoba County Fair at Philadelphia.

Besides seeing a lot of new sights and some familiar ones as well, you'll be saving energy and money. That's something to consider.

JACKSON - The people of Mississippi recently received some very good news when the U.S. Department of Commerce reported that our state had the third highest gain in per capita income in the nation during the year of 1976.

The Commerce Department reported that our per capita income increased by $496 (we went up to $4,575 from $4,079 the year before). This was a growth rate of 12.2 percent, and only the states Michigan and Maine were higher and then only slightly so. We have cause for pride.

But those are only figures; what does this really mean to the people of Mississippi? It means that during the year of 1976, the average income of every Mississippian - man, woman, and child - increased by $496. In other words, the average Mississippi family of four had almost $2,000 more to spend during 1976 than they had during 1975.

This increase in family income spills over into many other areas as well. It means that businesses will have a larger volume of sales because there is more money in the state. More business means more jobs, more bank deposits, more construction and an improved business climate in general. It is easy to see that every added dollar Mississippian earns not only helps that individual, but helps the entire done by more jobs alone; it is done by BETTER PAYING jobs. For example, if we could bring a million new jobs in the state this year and they were minimum-wage jobs, we would actually lower our per capita income rather than increase it. In contrast, 10,000 new jobs paying high wages would result in a good increase in per capita income. Our per capita income increased so dramatically last year because we are no longer seeking low-paying jobs that sell our people short. If they do not pa more than the average wage in Mississippi, we are not particularly interested in their coming here. We simply do not want our people exploited anymore by low wages because our workers are the most productive in the country and should be paid accordingly.

You can see that Mississippi is climbing the economic ladder, but we cannot afford to sit back and pat ourselves on the backs because we are still last in per capita income. Even though we are not as far behind as before. We have got to continue working as hard as we can, both on the state and local

Although we are still last, we are moving upward very rapidly, and within a very short time I am hopeful that we Mississippians can say to the world that "We're not last anymore!" We need your continued help and support to accomplish our goal of a better way of life for all Mississippians.

A big problem...the pier(city or county) in front of Gulfview Haven. A public place, enjoyed by many, which is now an eyesore. We have noticed a lot of people just sitting on the entrance to the pier enjoying a look over the Bay. Now they can't. We investigated the damage earlier this week and it seems a lot of problems have led to the CLOSING OF THE PIER!

Just below the place where you can sit, there is a 4x4 broken, another sticks in the air free of any support. At the steps on the other side, part of the landing is caved in and on the walkway to the pier, the supports are broken and boards are missing.

Signs have been placed at the entrance which read, "Stop", another..."Road Closed", another..."Danger Keep Out". Still with all the warnings, people are still using the pier. Someone, city or county needs to take

by Trent Lott

LEGISLATIVE POTPOURRI WASHINGTON, D.C. - Last week was a busy week for the House of Representatives, continuing the trend of long and productive weeks during this session of Congress. This has been one of the busiest months we've seen while I've been in Congress. There were a number of good bills passed, though there are certain negative aspects to passing legislation at the rate at which we have been going. It is difficult to be adequately informed on every bill in a week during which we pass as many as twenty-five bills, as we did last week. Many of these bills were good legislation but I fear that a few 'give-away'' programs were sneaked in there that will come back to haunt us. As I said though, there were a number of good bills passed. One such bill was the Youth Employment and Training Act, which would provide employment and training opportunities for the youth of our Nation. This is a good piece of legislation because it directly affects a large segment of our unemployed population, namely the young people of our country. The rise in the minimum wage has hust the young people because many companies cannot afford to employ youths while the unemployment rate is hovering at seven percent. So this bill will provide much needed opportunities for our youth and will give them a chance to work and become involved in our economic system. Another beneficial piece of legislation that we passed last week is the Disaster Relief Authorization, which amends the Disaster Relief Act of 1974. This our country.

provides funds for victims of disasters through fiscal year 1978. We have been fortunate in Mississippi in the past few years, but we all remember the devastation of Hurricane Camille, and how much we appreciated the help of our neighbors and the Nation as we pulled our communities back together after the disaster. So this is an important bill which hopefully will not affect us but which is vital for others in The Hatch Act finally came up for a vote last week and after one long afternoon and a very late evening, we postponed voting on the bill. As you know I am for a liberalization of the Hatch Act, which was enacted in 1939 to protect our Federal employees from political influences. The Hatch Act in its present form allows civil servants to participate in certain types of political activity. I proposed an amendment, which I am pleased to tell you passed by a vote of 259 to 144, which gives Federal employees the right to refrain. This simply provides an important shield for our civil servants, who should have the right to participate or to say "no thanks". Currently the Hatch Act restricts the spolitical activities of Federal employees and protects their civil liberties. My amendment will continue this protection and help maintain that delicate balance between fair and effective government and the First Amendment rights of individuals. The last piece of legislation I want to report to you about is the Tax Reduction and Simplification Act, which we also passed last week. This is basically a good bill, with three major provisions: an increase in the standard deduction, the new jobs credit, and the extension of the 1975 individual and corporate tax cuts. Basically it simplifies the forms for each taxpayer, creates some good reductions for a three year period, extends revenue sharing, and gives the taxpayer a one year reprieve on the sick-pay exclusion aspect which concerns so many of us. As I said before, this is a good piece of legislation that will help stimulate the economy while aiding individual tax-

So in addition to the fact that it was an overwhelmingly busy week, it was also a productive one, which resulted in some good legislation for the country and for the people of Mississippi.

The Peoples Business

When our nation's free enterprise system was born more than 350 years ago, who would have dreamed that one day government regulation would be business's "Public Enemy Number

Government overregulation of business and the individual was one of the major seeds of discontent discontent which resulted in the American Revolution and the phenomenal growth of free enterprise. Now, just 200 short years since the birth of our free form of government, businessmen have come to rue the imposition of unnecessary regulations by that very government.

A recent survey by the Center for Small Business shows that the three top problems small businesses face are, to a great extent, government created. Government regulation, inflation and taxation are the major obstacles to business now, that survey shows. While few would argue against the need for taxes, government could move to ease the tensions created by excessive regulations and inflation, and perhaps excessive or inequitable taxation.

Businesses surveyed in the southeastern section of the United States indicated that government regulation is a greater problem than inflation or taxation. In fact, the growing trend toward regulation was the foremost problem in every region of the country.

The regulations businesses face from the myriad of government agencies are Even the smaller staggering. businesses are frequently confronted by OSHA, EEOC, EPA, ICC and other regulatory agencies.

News from Sen. Stennis

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Senator John C. Stennis announced today that the Senate Public Works Committee is recommending authorization of three major navigation and flood control projects in Mississippi.

The Committee recommended work to deepen, widen and realign the channels and to deepen and enlarge the anchorage basin to provide a 38-foot depth in the Gulfport Harbor. Prior to the Committee approval, Stennis told the members, "The Port of Gulfport is being denied cargo which it would normally handle because ships would have to be loaded lightly in order to enter and leave the harbor The authorization has been delayed three years because of a court decision on the environmental impact statement. It should not be delayed further." The Committee recommended authorization of the first phase of a two phase construction program.

Stennis told the Committee that although the final report on the project has not been made to the Congress, he had been assured by the Chief of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers that the Corps is prepared to testify favorably on the project.

Based on recommendations of both Senators Stennis and Eastland, the Committee recommended authorization of a study of the major tributaries flowing into the Mississippi River between Bayou Pierre and the Buffalo River. Stennis told the Committee, "The Homochitto and Buffalo Rivers have a long history of periodic flooding, with consequent heavy damage to private and public property and loss of life." Stennis detailed the flooding history of the area and said. "in view of the facts it would be entirely appropriate for the Corps of Engineers to conduct this study and recommend to the Congress a solution to the persistent problems faced by the citizens of Southwest Mississippi.

The Committee also agreed to provisions of a bill introduced by Senator Eastland and co-sponsored by Stennis to authorize intermittent dredging in the Yazoo River between Greenwood and the mouth of the river. Supporting the measure, Stennis said, "During low-water periods, shoals form in the river stopping navigation on requiring that barges be very lightly loaded." He also pointed out, "Waterborne commerce on the river has grown from 207,000 tons in 1966 to 487,000 tons in 1975. The projected tonnage for 1976 of 572,000 tons tell well short of that amount because of very low stages on the Mississippi River at the mouth of the Yazoo River."

The three Mississippi projects are contained in the Senate version of the Onibus Rivers and Harbors Bill which must be favorably acted upon and appropriations secured before work

$500 per month for six months for a maximum of $3000. Beat Three Supervisor Oscar

Peterson, the county's representative to a session on the funds, said the Burk contract was designed to first establish priorities and then proceed with the applications... "for both grant and loan monies."

Confusion on the Office of Coastal Zone Management (OCZM) funds arose following a presentation by Ronnie Murray, Hancock County planner, Gulf Regional Planning Commission, who claimed his office was quite capable of making the applications without further expense to the county.

Murray said that most of the $2.7 million allocated to Mississippi's three coast counties was in the form of loans not grants.

Supervisors said they would discuss the matter with Burk before too much was undertaken as the county was quite unable to repay any loans and therefore should it prove all such funds were for loans the county would be unable to participate.

of Meridian, Educational Representative for South Central Bell accompanied Crull on the trip.

Kyle presented plane tickets to Crull for the all expensepaid visit to Bell Laboratories. Crull is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger A. Crull of 903 Spanish Acres Drive, Bay St.

Kyle said, "We are delighted to be able to provide students like Brad the opportunity to visit Bell Labs." Brad has participated in Science Fairs since he was in the fifth grade. He is presently a senior at Bay St. Louis High School where he serves as President of the Science Club. Brad is also a member of the National Honor Society and is Quartermaster of the Sons of Confederate Veterans. This year Crull placed second in the State Science Fair and was selected as an alternate to the International Science Fair to be held in Cleveland, Ohio. Last he was a finalist at the International Science Fair, held in Denver, where he received a Special Transportation Award. For the past two years (1976 & 1977) Crull has won first place in the Class V Botany and Microbiology division of the District Science Fair. He has also received the Army Award the NASA Award, Marine Resource Council Award, Marine Technology Award, and the Mississippi

Park Services Award Crull's project for the 1977 District and State Science Fairs dealt with the utilization of Biochemical processes to remove oil waste from water by using simple plants. He completed an extensive Biochemical assay of simple plants that were exposed to oil slicks to find the effects of oil on the plants and to find how effective the plants might be in removing oil from water. "These visits give young people with scientific interest and potential the chance to see some of the most advanced work being done anywhere in the fields of electronics, physics, mathematics and chemistry relating to telecommunications," Kyle continued.

Bell Laboratories is the research and development unit of the Bell System, which includes South Central Bell. At Bell Labs, Crull joined students from several other states for a series of talks, discussions and laboratory visits. Bell Labs scientists and engineers covered such subjects as optical communications, integrated graphics and electronic switching.

We proudly feature the Topco family of brands!

Not only do we offer you nationally advertised brands, but also other products of consistent quality which we can sell for less. Our own Topco family of brands — a wide assortment of food and non-food products — gives you outstanding value.

Topco's strong program of quality control assures you that our first quality products are equal to or better than the leading nationally advertised brands! Yet they offer you real economy. Our brands are priced lower than comparable national brands — sometimes only a penny or two lower, but often, depending upon the size or type of product, a nickel or a dime lower!

How does Topco achieve lower cost? By large volume, which allows increased efficiency. By specialization and knowledge of products, which allows wise buying. By lower costs of distribution, because products are shipped in volume direct to our warehouse, eliminating the "middle man" and his cost. And Topco products do not carry the heavy costs of national advertising.

Our merchandising philosophy can be summed up in one word — balance. We give you a choice of two different types of products: nationally advertised brands and our own Topco family of brands. While we feel that by and large you obtain a better value with Topco, we leave the choice up to you.

The quality is equal to or better than the leading national brands...the price is up to 20% lower!
